Shelly Weaver & IMANONSTOP FAME 'Prince'

"I told Prince from the time he was born that he was born to be great."

As a child growing up my parents bought me a horse named Sister. I competed in the local round up club until I was 10 years old. My parents moved to the city so I didn't ride again for 26 years. In 2002 I married my husband Steve Weaver and we live in Bristow OK. In 2007 at the age of 36 years old I began riding again. It took hours and hours a day to get my balance back. There was a lot of sweat, tears and injuries to get where I am today. I had several people tell me "That once you stop riding and begin again after years being out of the saddle it's like riding a bike". This was a huge falsehood!

There was no fast-track way to get where I am. It took motivation and dedication. I set my goals yearly and worked every day to meet them. I have been fortunate that I have had some of the best coaches in the industry. In 2007 I qualified for the 2008 NBHA World Finals on two horses. In 2011 I filled my WPRA Permit and became a cardholder.

In 2010 I purchased Imanonstop Princess from Jackie Jatzlau. I wanted a horse that was a top pro rodeo caliber. I had been in love with Princess for several years. When I had the opportunity to buy her I jumped on it. Unfortunately Princess was injured shortly after I bought her, so I only ran her a handful of times. Since I already owned several Dash Ta Fame horses, I felt he would be the perfect cross with Princess. Prince was an embryo transfer and he was the first baby I had ever raised so he was handled and loved on daily. I have had several futurity horses that I have purchased but none that I have raised till now. Due to Princess's injury I always felt Prince was my blessing from God. I told Prince from the time he was born that he was born to be great. I truly believed this with all my heart.

In March of 2014 I sent Imanonstop Fame "Prince" to Jackie Jatzlau. Jackie would be training and competing on Prince for his Futurity and Derby years. Jackie has a winning history competing and training on this breed. When deciding which trainer I would send Prince to, the deciding factor was who I could ride behind. After riding behind Jackie for years I felt she was the best choice for me. I also had to factor in someone that could handle high pressure runs. Entering these futurities is never cheap so having a jockey that has already been there was key. Jackie's successes range from NFR to Futurities.

In April Jackie called me and told me she was pregnant and said she understood if I wanted to send him somewhere else. We talked about some people he could go to and do well and I told her to let me just pray about this. The next day I called Jackie and told her that I felt Prince was right where he should be, so as long as she could ride him he would stay with her. If that meant he was behind kicking off the year, then so be it. I truly felt this was best for Prince. Jackie slow-worked him at her house until she was 7 ½ months along and then he came back home. Prince ended up getting a bad respiratory infection and was off for a month. After he was able to be ridden I started exercising him until Jackie was able to ride again and in November he went back to her.

We kicked off his year at BFA Juvenile placing 8th in the 2nd go. We didn't know it at the time but Prince had contracted Rhino--after his run he just didn't seem right. After a very stressful month Prince was finally released to go back to competing. Jackie only had two weeks to prepare for LG Pro Classic. In the 1st go we were 4th and 1st in 2nd go with the fastest time of the weekend. We also won Futurity Average Champion. Jackie then set her sights on RFDTV The American... Prince qualified with the fastest time in the semi finals. He won his spot in the finals at Cowboy Stadium. Prince had some ground trouble in the finals but handled it like a champ! To be a 4 year old and take that kind of pressure is amazing! He never seemed rattled by it even though he was the only baby there running against the best in the country. We didn't have the runs we wanted at Diamonds and Dirt or BBR but with some time off before Ft Smith he was ready. Jackie did a tremendous job jockeying Prince to this victory! I am so blessed for our entire Team that made this possible. To have the title of Futurity Champion at Ft Smith is such an honor.

Futurity Champion — Cover Story

MOLLY OTTO & SFW WONDER WOMAN

Molly Otto, 27 is from Grand Forks, ND. She is married to Andrew Otto and has 2 boys—Sterling 8 and Rowdy 5.

I started out riding... in the local 4H Club and open horse shows when I was about 13. I leased a horse for a year until my parents decided that I was not just going through a phase and they finally bought me my first barrel horse when I was a sophomore in high school. I did a few high school rodeos in Minnesota my senior year and then after I graduated I took a couple years off and then decided to attend NDSU where I participated on the rodeo team.

I had trained a few horses for myself and other people but nothing serious until 2011 when I trained my first "real" barrel horse, Eyema Rare Bug--'Fierce' and I won the SDSU Jackrabbit Stampede and she had only 4 months of barrel training and this was only her 5th competition away from home. I went on to win and place at multiple pro rodeos, futurities, and derbies on her until I sold her in 2013. I then purchased a horse in 2014 named Carmans Fantasy (Paris is what I call her) whom I trained and competed on in the Northern Region Futurity Tour. She was 3rd overall in the year end standings and was the 2014 WPRA Reserve World Champion Futurity horse. Paris has also placed at multiple pro rodeos.

Last year was when I decided that I really wanted to ride futurity horses and I purchased a prospect for 2015, SFW Wonder Woman, a 2011 buckskin filly by Sun Frost Wonder and out of Princess Lopesalot (Royal Quick Dash). She has been so fun to train. She is naturally talented and just figured it out instantly--she is so honest around her barrels and seems to really love her job.

More details about her winning horse.... I ride 'Wonder Woman' in my Lynn McKenzie Special saddle and I will ride her in an o-ring twisted snaffle and run her in a Brittney Pozzi twisted snaffle with a medium shank. She is at the point where I no longer work the barrels on her at home, I just mostly ride her out in the field or lope circles in the arena. I figure if she works well when I haul her there is no need to pick on her and create issues to work on. I think that really helps build her confidence. When I warm her up at the barrel races I will do some counter arcs and spin her around into my hand getting her softened up and responsive in her face, shoulders, rib cage, and hindquarters. She is really quiet and gentle but she does have some silly quirks (like any other great horses out there) that I've learned to deal with. She doesn't like to trot--she will walk or slow lope all day long which is fine because trotting is a lot of work for me so I'd rather lope as well. Running barrels seems to be effortless and easy for her--she can literally fly across the pen and make it look so smooth and easy. She loves to hunt the barrels but she is very honest so I can just send her up into the turn and sit there and just guide her around the backside of the barrel. I feel that she runs the best when I just sit up there and squeeze my legs and smooch to her rather than kicking and being real aggressive.

Positive affirmations.... When I am getting ready to compete on her I like to say a lot of positive affirmations such as I am confident, Wonder Woman is confident, she has perfect footwork around each barrel, my horse is a winner and so am I. I feel as if that gets my mindset ready to compete, which in turn gets my horse feeling confident and ready to go out there and compete as well.

My goals this year are to win the year end NRF Tour and hopefully get in the WPRA Futurity Standings. I am also hoping to compete at the Badlands pro rodeos and make circuit finals on both Carmans Fantasy and SFW Wonder Woman, but my main goal right now is to get to the futurities and derbies.

I would like to thank my sponsor ADM Alliance Nutrition for keeping my horses looking and feeling great!

fluenza. It may also be confused with purpura hemorrhagica in which subcutaneous swelling of the legs is severe.

There is no specific treatment that is likely to modify the action of the virus but it is usual to administer antibiotics to horses with equine viral rhinopneumonitis to prevent and treat infection with secondary bacterial invaders. The treatment should be continued over 4-6 days. Warm, draft-free, isolated confinement should be provided if possible, with laxative foods and a constant supply of fresh drinking water.

Tom Hutchins

ABOUT: Tom Hutchins DVM

Silverado Equine Performance, LLC was established in 2013. With 15 years experience in the performance horse industry, Dr. Hutchins' goal was to create a practice that fulfilled a special niche: provide the absolute best care available for each horse with all necessary diagnostic tools available for your equine athlete and be able to bring it to you in the comfort of your farm or stable. The scope of the practice is primarily lameness and sports medicine although other services are available upon request. This allows Dr. Hutchins to stay on the leading edge of performance medicine. It takes a team to keep a finely tuned athlete going, so when necessary, recommendations and referrals to the most qualified professionals for a given condition are made.

WHERE IS 'YOUR' FIRE EXTINGUISHER?

This month I want to talk about fire extinguishers and to know where they are in your truck and trailer.

On May 1st I was coming home from a barrel race in Winona, MN and there is a big hill that comes down into LaCrosse, WI. Well a semi driver was flashing me as I got to the construction area. I kept looking to see what was wrong and I finally saw some smoke and then sparks coming from my driver's side trailer tires. I quickly decided I had to pull over to see what was going on. I pulled onto the edge of the single construction lane, got to the tire and saw it was on fire behind the wheel. I very quickly started to unload all four horses right onto the side of the interstate. My young friend Ashley held horses while I got them all out. (Ashley's first trip with me!) Next I tried to figure out how to get the fire out. I called 911 and told them my trailer was on fire and then while I was on the phone I remembered where my fire extinguisher was in the living quarters. I quickly jerked it out of its holder, pulled the release pin and put out the fire.

It was a very scary situation because my 20 gallon gas tank for the trailer generator is right behind the back tire plus we are very dry here in Wisconsin and we could have started the whole area on fire. That's why 911 sent three fire trucks and three police cars to help. The firemen and policemen were so kind and helpful. They proceeded to help get my tire off so I could drive it somewhere. My friend Terri came to take three of the horses for me. I put one horse in the trailer and limped it into LaCrosse. And oh, by the way, it was the brakes that locked up and the repair bill was about $2,000—cheap compared to what it could have been!

The moral of the story is to have your brakes and bearings checked often (which I do) and to know where you keep your fire extinguisher. It could save your life, your horses and your truck and trailer. Thank you to everyone that helped two ladies in distress this past month.

EQUINE VIRAL RHINOPNEUMONITIS

By Tom Hutchins, DVM, DABVP

Serious outbreaks of upper respiratory tract disease can ruin a racing season, a show season and foaling season. Administrators of boarding and training facilities have become increasingly authoritative about vaccination requirements. Most of these outbreaks are caused by equine viral influenza. But when equine viral rhinopneumonitis is implicated, it can be devastating for the horseman and the facility itself. The problem is greatest where horses are housed semi-permanently in accommodations provided at the facility. In other circumstances where horses are in respiratory contact only on the day of training or competition, the outbreaks are much less serious.

The most serious outbreaks in horses occur in the winter and spring with equine viral rhinopneumonitis being the most common in winter and influenza causing most of the outbreaks in the summer. Two and three-year-old horses are the most frequent sufferers, as most four years of age or older appear to have developed resistance to the infections. In a horse population it is the average age and the mix of ages which largely determine its herd resistance, and when 30-40% of that population has not been previously exposed to infection then major outbreaks are likely. All of the equine respiratory viruses cause persistent reduction in the tracheal clearance rate of foreign material for at least 30 days. Clinical signs disappear much earlier than this and the recovery period should be extended to ensure that horses are not put back into work too early.

There are four common types of equine herpes virus (EHV).

- EHV-1 has a few subtypes. Subtype 1 is associated with abortion and subtype 2 is associated with respiratory disease, but also capable of abortion. EHV-1 is the most potent equine abortifacient.
- EHV-2 causes long-term infection in foals, some which develop clinical signs of purulent nasal discharge, fever and swollen lymph nodes in a syndrome that lasts about a week. It is rare for animals to die from this type.
- EHV-3 is a venereal disease manifested by lesions that start out flat, then pustular, then eventually ulcerative in the vaginal mucosa which is generally reddened. The ulcers may be as large as 2 centimeters in diameter and 0.5 centimeters deep and are surrounded by a zone of redness and inflammation.
- EHV-4 causes outbreaks of respiratory disease in any kind of horse population, at any time of the year.

The disease is highly infectious, and transmission probably occurs by the inhalation of infected droplets or by the ingestion of material contaminated by nasal discharges or aborted fetuses. Immediate infection can occur with the virus surviving for 14-45 days outside the animal. The duration of infectivity of animals is unknown, but it is probably some weeks and possibly longer because carrier animals seem to be necessary for persistence of the disease from year to year.

The disease is a mild inflammation of the respiratory tract of horses, characterized by coughing and nasal discharge. The importance of the disease is the large numbers of animals that can be affected in the outbreak, especially when horses are congregated in colder months. Fatalities in uncomplicated cases are unlikely, but affected animals are unable to work, racehorses have to break their training, and 'storms' of abortions occur in bands of brood mares, with as many as 80-85% of mares at risk either aborting or losing their foals during their first day of life.

Nervous system involvement can occur in an outbreak in which abortion and respiratory problems also are present. Outbreaks may be massive. It is most common in horses that become re-infected with the virus. The standard killed vaccine is not preventative but aids in the horse developing a certain level of immunity. There are modified-live vaccines available designed to aid in the prevention of abortion. The vaccine is designed to be administered at 5, 7, and 9 months of gestation.

The ataxia and paresis lasts for up to several weeks and is followed by recumbency. Some die after an illness of only 2 days. In a majority of cases, the patient has to be euthanized within a month. There have been reports of 50-60% of horses exposed to the respiratory form of the disease developed nervous signs. The disease can be reproduced experimentally and is characterized by an incubation period of 7 days.

As an upper respiratory tract infection it must be differentiated from strangles, with nasal discharge and swollen lymph nodes, from the more severe equine viral arteritis and equine in-

MELANIE ADAMS &
RGR LONER BOY

"The ability to read a horse is invaluable"

Melanie

Going into the weekend of the SWDC Futurity wasn't looking to be very good for our horses. My husband, Deloy Adams, and I had to scratch one of them--RGR Springloaded better known as Springer--due to an abscess. He is a 5 yr old, 16.2 hand gelding by Makn-Moves and out of Special Gigi which is an own daughter of Special effort.

Then our other gelding, RGR LonerBoy (Loner) was really tender footed when we unloaded him out of the horse trailer so I was unsure about running him. I called Hank Allred, our farrier, and told him we had a problem and within 2 hours he was on the road in the pouring rain to pad and Equi-Pak him. When he got the pads on he started to lick his lips and walked off strong but it wasn't till the next morning, the day of the 1st go, that we decided to go ahead and run him. Loner is a 5yr old bay gelding sired by LuckyMe Lonely You and out of Hugo Style, a double-bred Streakin Six mare.

Both futurity horses were bred and raised by the Rainbow Glass Ranch, Ross and David, and Ross's daughter-in-law Shawnalee Hinkins is their sales manager. She is also an awesome barrel racer and a brand new mother!! 'I love these people - they are a great group'.

I had won the Dixie Classic Barrel Futurity in St. George on Loner earlier in March. He ran 3rd in the 1st go and won the 2nd go also winning the Stallion Incentive and Open futurity average. We also ended up 2nd in the 1D open average just behind the great team of Kali Jo Parker and Tuneful. My husband also runs barrels on an 8yr old Zan Par Bar, Two-eyed Jack gelding called Sport. I had a futurity horse a couple years back but she had an accident at her first barrel race and really wasn't able to run at 100%. But before that I hadn't run in a futurity since I left Texas 12 yrs before.

I trained barrel horses and sold them and then kept 1 or 2 to rodeo on; but after marrying Deloy 4yrs ago we talked about it and decided to get some young horses setting our sights on futurities. We have a 3yr old gelding RGR Jess Da Bomb by Nashville Rising (Mr Jess Perry x Morning Snow) out of RGR Bombay Day a Streakin Six mare. I also have a 9yr old black gelding, WM Jungle Love (Monkey), that I run at the Pro Rodeos he is by Smoke N Sparks and out of Gamblers Dilemma.

We have 3 futurities in June: the Dash For Dollars, Colorado Classic Futurity, and Red Desert Classic Futurity with our ultimate goal being the Parker Woods Memorial futurity. It ought to be an awesome futurity with some of the best horses running at it.

I have been involved in many disciplines of the horse industry from training barrel horses, race horses, roping, cutting and reining, but my one true love is barrel racing. I love training babies and I always keep in mind that each horse is an individual with their own style of running and turning--the ability to read a horse is invaluable. I also try to keep an open mind on bits and tack...for example, with Loner I tried to find a transitional bit for him but he loves his Skinner Draw bit, so I run him in it with a loose German Martingale. I want to keep my horses happy, healthy and loving their jobs. We have two vets that we use lot, Dr Duane Utley and Dr David Wolfe along with our horse dentist Shane Hatch, because as the old saying goes "It takes a Village".

Training with
JOY WARGO

WHAT'S IN YOUR TOOL BOX?

TACK, KNOWLEDGE OR BOTH?

One of the most important training tools I have is consistency. All too often we see barrel racers ride differently at the race, whether it is due to nerves, pressure to do well, or riding in front of their peers. Our horses can also react differently in public as well because of nerves. I believe that being consistent in the way we ride is crucial. This means ride with the same posture and body position in public as you do at home. Be consistent in the way you work the pattern and the maneuvers you ask of your horse. Be conscious of where your hands and legs are and what you are doing with them all the time. Hold yourself accountable when you make a mistake communicating cues to your horse. If you have been consistent and continue to be consistent both you and your horse will be confident.

ABOUT JOY – I am originally from Fort Bridger, WY and moved to north Texas in 2001 with my husband Trent. I started training futurity horses full time in 2012. A few of my favorites include Smokin Koa Lena, Cashin on the Bayou and Vegas Firefighter. I won the 2014 AQHA World Championship in Senior Barrels with Smokin Koa Lena. Thank you to Schneider Performance Pads and RES Boots for being great sponsors and providing us with outstanding equipment.

The most important ingredient in any training program is consistency. This includes teaching children, dogs, horses or retraining ourselves mentally or physically. Specifically, with horse training, this means going out and doing the same thing with your horse every day until you and your horse master a technique or maneuver. Horse training is all about mastering the small fundamental exercises of body control. Even the most athletic maneuvers are simply a combination of small fundamentals put together seamlessly. The greatest horse trainers have figured this out and have become obsessive about mastering basic body control.

If you're training your own horse or trying to maintain the training your horse has received from a professional you must acquire or take on the mentality of a professional trainer. Horses do not care that you pay the feed bill, mortgage on the barn or even that you brag to your friends about how great or poor they are. We need to love and care for our animals on their terms, not ours. The amount of consistency that it takes to train a horse well is unfathomable to a novice until they have gone through the process themselves. There will be times when you feel you are being too demanding of your horse, but as you gain more experience and success you will find the balance that works for you. As you create more obedience and responsibility in your horse, you can then give them more freedom.

Having a timeline for training a horse will help you to understand how consistent you need to be. So I'm going to give you a fairly concrete idea of what markers and timelines to look for and progress towards. In three months a horse should have a basic foundation. This means they should be gentle and be mounted without much lunging, as well as walk, trot and lope around relaxed. You should be able to handle them through new situations with little difficulty. Past this point it will take two years to get a horse into the show pen or make them a considerably solid ranch mount. This will take riding five days a week with a week's vacation every six months or so and maybe a Friday off every so often if they've ridden very well Monday through Thursday. If this sounds like a lot of consistency you will need to recalibrate your scale. You may not plan on showing your horse or using them on the ranch everyday but that does not matter to your horse. For him to become the best at what you have in mind, he needs consistency at least four days a week.

Matthew Bohman

Matthew has made his living training horses since he was sixteen years old. After working and learning directly with several well known and respected trainers and horsemen learning cutting, cow horse, roping and reining, Matthew decided to take his experience and years of training young and challenging horses to the next level and is currently starting 2 year olds for NRHA Hall of Famer, Bob Loomis. His willingness to share his knowledge is the driving force behind his new clinic program. He is now available for clinics and lessons as well as a limited number of colt starts and training.

PQHB BARREL FUTURITY

PRAIRIE QUARTER HORSE BREEDERS

Bar Diamond L Performance Horse Arena - Cadogan, AB - May 22-23, 2015

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER WIN BOTH THE FUTURITY & DERBY

Corney Wiebe is the proud owner of BOTH horses!

The PQHB (Prairie Quarter Horse Breeders) Barrel Racing Futurity and Derby was held at Bar Diamond L Performance Horses (Aaron & Lisa Groves) near Cadogan, AB on May 22nd & 23rd. Entries included 49 Futurity Horses and 40 Derby Entries. The Canadian Barrel Futurities sanctioned event was the third to run in Canada this spring, and the first to run outdoors on a standard pattern. The two run average was based on the first outdoor run, along with a second indoor run.

The Futurity Championship was won by Andrea Udal on Streakin Ta Corona, a 2010 sorrel mare owned by Corney Wiebe. The Derby Championship was won by Colby Gilbert (the daughter of Andrea Udal) on French Streaktorodeo, a 2008 bay roan stallion, also owned by Corney Wiebe. These results are a testament to a solid training program on the part of Andrea Udal Barrel Horses, a solid program of horses owned by the Wiebe's, and that great relationship that exists between the partners involved in such a victorious weekend. Congrats to ALL involved.

The Futurity and Derby featured incentives to those horses holding a PQHB Certificate (purchased through a past PQHB Sale). Winners of the incentives in the Derby were: 1st - Jacqueline Hoover on Profits Julianne, and 2nd - Danika Symak on ZS First Fire. In the Futurity, there was only one entry....Docs Silverado Sandy, owned by Terry Laye & Lisa Groves, ridden by Terry Laye. This horse was also the only PQHB eligible horse shown in the Team Roping Futurity, taking home $2500 in cash and two beautiful buckles.

In addition to the Futurity and Derby, The Second To None Slot Race was held, and featured some of Canada's toughest competition from both professional and amateur ranks. This tough race was won by NFR qualifier, Traci MacDonald on her horse, Copy N Paradise.

Lisa Groves

We asked Andrea a bit about herself and her horse...

....I have had Streakin Ta Corona for just over a year. She is fun to ride and always seems to work whether it is a big or small arena. I use Dave Elliot bits and a Raylee Racer barrel saddle. She has won over $10,000 in the last few months. I have trained barrel horses for quite a few years. I also love spending time hauling and promoting my daughter Colby who won the Prairie Derby Championship. I am so excited for the rest of the summer on this talented mare. I would like to thank Corney and Maria Wiebe for trusting me and letting me train this horse like she is my own.

IT'S HAY MAKING TIME!

What's in Your hay?

*"For sale - Grass hay for horses. 50 pound bales.
$5.00 a bale. Delivery available."*

Ads similar to this will be appearing across the country as the weather allows farmers to start making hay. But the advertisement leaves several unanswered questions....

What is grass hay?

The most popular plant families used to make hay are grasses and legumes. Grass plants are monocotyledonous, which means one leaf sprouts from the seed. Leaves of grass are long and slender. Legumes are dicotyledons, which means two leaves sprout from the seed. The leaves are generally three leaflets attached to a petiole (stem). Legumes develop nodules on the roots which interact with bacteria and produces nitrogen needed for growth. Legumes produce "pods", which contain seeds. Nutritionally, grass hay will be lower in protein and calcium than hay that is made with legumes. Legume hay (alfalfa, clover, trefoil) will also have a higher energy content.

Within the grass family are many varieties, which are broken into two groups: cool-season and warm-season. Cool-season grasses grow best in temperatures between 65 and 75 degrees Fahrenheit. In the United States they are commonly grown in the upper regions (northeast, mid-west and Pacific northwest). Examples of cool-season hay grass varieties used for horses are timothy, orchard grass, Kentucky bluegrass, fescue, brome grass and ryegrass.

Warm-season grasses are adapted for the warmer temperatures of the south and southwest. They will go dormant when temperatures drop below 65 degrees Fahrenheit. The most popular warm-season horse hay varieties are Bahia grass and Bermuda grass.

What type of grass was used to make the hay in the advertisement? It is possible the hay producer does not know. Unless the fields have been maintained with proper weed control, fertilization and re-seeding (with known grass varieties) the consumer may be buying weeds. For example, a warm-season weed called Johnsongrass is toxic to horses, but looks beautiful when growing. A volunteer (not purposely planted) cool season, non-endophyte free fescue grass can cause abortion, foaling problems and lack of milk production. Native grass varieties can make good hay, but they should be identified and confirmed they are not toxic to horses.

All plants drop in nutrition and digestibility as they mature, and should be harvested at the peak nutritional stage. This is generally before the boot stage - before the seed heads appear. Unfortunately weather plays a big part in the timing.

How mature is the hay in the ad? An examination to determine the stage of the seed heads, and the coarseness of the stems will give the buyer insight to the nutritional value and digestibility of the hay. Very mature hay will be wasted by the horse. Supplementation will be required to make up for the nutritional deficiencies. Older horses, or horses requiring dental care, will have trouble chewing the coarse forage. The non-digestible parts of the hay will also lead to an expanded cecum (hay belly).

Before writing a check for the "grass" hay, do your homework and make sure you are getting horse quality forage.

ROPER APPAREL AND FOOTWEAR FUTURITY

& KOHR QUARTER HORSE EVENT WEEKEND

Cam-Plex, Gillette, WY – May22-14, 2015

Futurity Champion

SAMANTHA FLANNERY
VANILAS SUDDEN FAME

The Kohr Family, aka, Kohr Quarter Horses joined with their loyal sponsors: Roper Apparel and Footwear, Zoetis, Classic Equine, Formula 707, Thars' Feeds, Westergren Quarter Horses, Adequan, Jessie Jaymes Silversmiths, Barrel Racing Report, Purina, Dry Creek Western Wear, Future Fortunes, Triple Crown 100, Northern Hills Homes and RV, Silver Nails Construction, Dakota Hills Vet Clinic, Li Productions, Ireland Performance Horses, Sitnal Livestock, First National Bank, Flannery Barrel Horses, Adon Ranch, Nannaman Brothers, Wardell Quarter Horses and many more to make the weekend's total of $74,910 in prize money and awards.

Friday night started out with the Thars' 2D Pole Futurity, $500 added, with the top honors going to Playguns Fame, by Playgun out of Zigzagenzani, ridden by Jessie Telford and owned by Jake and Jessie Telford turning in the fast time of 20.959--winning a Jessie Jaymes Silversmith custom buckle. The 2D winner was Lana Dacar on BI Runnin Roxie by Red White and Run and out of BI Lil French Kiss by Frenchmans Guy turning in the time of 23.747 and taking home a buckle donated by Thars' Feeds and Flannery Performance Horses. Thars' Open 3D Poles, $500 added, followed the pole futurity. Running a 20.826 and turning in the fast time was Lynn Kohr riding Bueno Sugar Frost owned by Fred and Clara Wilson, collecting a Thars' Headstall. Winning the 2D poles and running a 21.900 was Jessie Ann Chrisman on GSP Docs Misty Friday taking home a Thars' Headstall. And winning the 3D poles was Jordan Morman on Friendly running a 22.938 and taking home a Thars' Headstall.

The Roper Apparel and Footwear/ Zoetis Barrel Futurity started Saturday off with outstanding barrel horses from the surrounding states including entries from AZ, ID, MT, SD, ND, CO, NE, OK and TX. Out of the field of 62 Futurity barrel horses Vanilas Sudden Fame, 2010 palomino mare by Dash to Fame and out of SX Frenchmans Vanila, owned by Butch and Stephanie Webb of Webb Ranches, LLC, was crowned Champion. The mare was piloted this weekend by Samantha Flannery of Mission SD. Sam picked her up May 6th from Butch Webb. Sam said,

"It started raining the day I brought her home and basically hasn't quit. I got to know her in the pasture and I went to one jackpot the weekend before this futurity. I called Ashley a couple times and got instructions on how she rode her, plus watched some videos. My first run was an adrenaline rush, she blew out of the first so hard, I was thankful to hit the cantle of the saddle and stayed in. I felt that I was thrown around some, but we got the job done. On the second run, I felt like I rode her a lot better, lots of barrels were going down, but she let me guide her and keep her off the barrels. I was just the jockey this past weekend and for the rest of the summer. I'm following in some very big footsteps behind Ashley Schafer. Her awesome training made my weekend easy."

Samantha graciously gives the credit to her first jockey and barrel trainer Ashely Schafer of Yoder, WY who has jockeyed the brilliant mare to LTE of $87,000. Samantha Flannery did her amazing "Jump Jockeying", riding the mare to the 2015 Championship and adding $3,500 to Vanilas Sudden Fame's LTE totaling over $90,000!

The Animal Medical Center 2D Incentive Champion was Dee Haugen on Majestic Corona, by Dash Ta Fame and out of Let Me Loose Corona by Corona Cartel taking home a beautiful buckle sponsored by Flannery Barrel Horses and Thars' Feed.

The Westergren Quarter Horses Amateur Futurity Rider Champion was Bernice Richard on Sincerely Famous, by Famous JR and out of Ima Sincere Bear Too, by Better Judgement. Bernice took home a beautiful Jessie Jaymes Silversmith custom trophy buckle donated by Gary Westergren, Ireland Performance Horses, Li Productions and Dakota Hills Vet Clinic.

The Dacar Family All-Around Futurity Horse Award, the futurity horse with the most points from the pole futurity and the barrel futurity, and winning a beautiful custom Copper Frame, went to Jessie Telford riding Playguns Fame.

Formula 707 Maturity, $2000 added, was a tight race with Kristen LaDuke of Gillette WY riding her gelding, Steakin Jet Remedy, topping the field of 37 horses.

Curt Laduke, horse trainer and husband to Kristen (King) LaDuke bought "Blue Duck" from Rayne Rice after a near career ending accident...Curt was starting Blue Duck for friend, Rayna, of Sydney MT, as a 2 year old. Blue Duck had a freak accident that caused him to be in a cast and lose part of the injured foot. Curt, thinking he had crippled the horse, asked Rayna if he could purchase him. As luck had it, (and with diligent care) Blue Duck had a full recovery, leaving only a small scar for evidence of the story. Kristen did all the barrel training on Blue Duck, taking her time to ensure a solid and quiet, fast footed style. When asked, Kristen humbly explains,

"He is not just a barrel horse, but a horse Curt can take to the branding, the roping pen, the sorting pen or the round pen and halter break colts. I only started him on the barrels as a 5 year old. Although we had somewhat of a rocky start, I finally feel I am starting to see some consistency, but no two runs have ever been the same. This spring he really has stepped up and started to figure some things out. Every weekend is a new challenge, but I am very excited to see what the future holds."

Streakin Jet Remedy, aka, Blue Duck, is a 7 year old gelding by A Streak of Fling and out of Imashoooin, by If Im Elected. For the Maturity Championship, Kristen collected a custom Jessie Jaymes Silversmith trophy buckle, sponsored by Triangle Cross Quarter Horses and in loving memory of "The Chocolate Dash", a leather Roper Award coat, a Formula 707 bucket and certificate.

The Adon Ranch 2D Maturity Incentive Champion was Sara Cheeney on Sprattsfamouslybet, by Peerless Fame out of Bet On Leah by Bet The Cash. She won a buckle sponsored by Flannery Barrel Horses and Thars' Feeds.

ESSENTIAL OILS

The smell of a horse can be calming to those of us who love them. Many people who do not ride, keep a horse. When asked "Why?", a common answer is "I need the smell of a horse in my life".

The olfactory system (the mechanism that enables smell) is not as well developed in humans as it is in many animals. But yet a whiff of a certain scent can trigger a pleasant or unpleasant feeling, calmness or anxiety.

The art of aromatherapy uses the sense of smell to help support the body during an illness or time of stress. Therapeutic essential oils are the key to this interesting and helpful therapy. "Essential" had many definitions. One that comes to mind is: "something that is required, fundamental or indispensable". But in the aromatherapy arena, the definition of "essential" is: "the quality or nature that makes something what it is - its essence."

Essential oils are different than perfumes. Perfumes can be made from manufactured chemicals and can contain artificial ingredients. Essential oils are natural and contain the molecules from beneficial plants--tapping into their "essence".

To administer the essential oil, via aromatherapy, allow the horse to sniff the bottle of oil. If he avoids the offering, do not keep insisting--this is to be pleasurable, not a fight. If the horse likes it, you can now dab a small amount of diluted oil in his stall or paddock area, so he will have the opportunity to partake at will. You may also apply a small amount of the diluted oil (not more than a drop) on the chest, neck or forehead. Be sure to steer clear of any mucous membranes. The aroma will waft up to the nose. The equine sense of smell is much stronger than ours so do not use capacious amounts - just a drop is all that is needed. Monitor the area and discontinue if skin irritation appears.

Essential oils can also be used topically. A massage using the diluted oil can help relax the horse...and you. Some oils have antiseptic properties which may help ease irritation of a minor wound. Consult your veterinarian before using essential oils on an injury.

There are many essential oils, and each one has specific targets. For example, lavender is known for its calming, almost sedative properties; rosemary is considered to be a stimulant-keeping the subject alert and focused.

How often you use essential oils depends on the product and manufacturer. Follow the directions and buy from reputable dealers.

Do not use essential oils internally without consulting a professional. Giving your horse essential oils orally can cause digestive upset or other issues.

Just as the essence of the horse can help us during periods of grief or sickness, we can also help them. Consider the use of essential oils for your horse during times of stress....soothing to both you and your horse.

- For information about essential oils enroll in the online course: "Essential Oils and Acupressure for Horses".

Go to:

http://www.equinestudiesinstitute.com/pht_oil_acupressure_description.html

The course is provided by the Tallgrass Animal Acupressure Institute (TgAAI). Earn a certificate from TgAAI when you pass and complete the course.
